

Local conservation does not require constant comoving-volume energy

